OUR MISSION

To offer a world-class Health & Safety training, management and equipment supply service and assist our clients in creating a healthy, safe and prepared working environment.

HEALTH & SAFETY TRAINING

The Occupational Health & Safety Act requires organizations to train their employees in accredited first aid, firefighting, evacuation planning, health and safety representative and various other legal compliance courses, which assist in achieving OHS act compliance.

Our training courses and services are aimed at creating prepared working environments, that should an incident occur, the health and safety teams are able to respond quickly and manage the incident appropriately.

ACCREDITATION

First Aid, Fire and Safety Training has partnered with Absolute Health Services, a fully accredited training provider. We offer a wide range of health and safety related training courses. All first aid training courses are accredited with the Department of Labour, the HWSETA and QCTO and meet the requirements of the OHS Act 85 of 1993, General Safety Regulation 3(4) for first aid training requirements.

Our training courses are developed and centred around professionalism and quality. We can assure all our delegates of receiving good knowledge and a practical skills-based learning experience. Certificates are electronically generated and forwarded to the delegate or their organizations representative within 10 working days after successfully completing the courses.

HEALTH & SAFETY EQUIPMENT SUPPLY & SERVICING

It is important to ensure that the work environment is stocked with the correct health and safety emergency equipment requirements. Should an emergency occur, the trained health and safety personal and teams, will then have the correct and appropriate equipment available to manage the emergency. We provide a full range of common health and safety emergency equipment items and one of our specialists can assist you with a Health and Safety Equipment Assessment, to determine your legal compliance equipment requirements. Examples of the legally required health and safety equipment that needs to be readily available on the site will include the following:

- First Aid Kits - Wall-mounted or carry bags
- Evacuation Chair
- Evacuation Floor Plans
- H&S Team Emergency Bibs / Vests
- Loud & Clear Alarm Horn
- Fire Extinguishers
- Fire Blankets
- SABS Luminescent Signs
- OHS Act Posters

FIRE EQUIPMENT SERVICING DIVISION - GAUTENG

Fire extinguishers and hose reels are a first line of defence against fires and it is a legal requirement that these products are readily available and in a good operating condition. In order to provide a holistic health and safety service to all our clients, we established an accredited "Fire Equipment Servicing Division". This is a state-of-the-art fire equipment servicing division, with a permanent servicing workshop in Johannesburg, which caters for servicing and SAQCC training requirements.

TESTIMONIALS

"The level of service, quality and professionalism received from FAFST in maintaining our Health and Safety standards has met our expectations. We are extremely satisfied with the current service which is being provided by FAFST and have no hesitation in recommending their services and expertise."

Greg Appelgrein – Associate Director / Operations National Security Office*

AHS provides training to all our national reps (Cape Town, KwaZulu-Natal, ECP Coega and 1 Discovery Place). Training services are also extended to the Discovery contractors, eg. cleaners, security and fleet services. Courses include First Aid level 1 & 2, She Rep training, Basic firefighting and Evacuation planning.

David Pierre-Eugene – Head Corporate Real Estate Solutions*

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your team for their collective continued efforts to provide and maintain a world class service offering for our learners on and off campus. We consistently receive positive feedback following the various training sessions which is crucial to our long-term success in developing safe productive solutions to the business and market segment. Please keep up the impressive good work."

Tony Pretorius – Education Training and Development Executive*

Throughout their engagement with ADVTECH Group, AHS has exhibited exceptional dedication and expertise, significantly contributing to our H&S initiatives. Their proactive approach, coupled with a willingness to accommodate our needs, underscores their commitment to ensuring the highest standards of safety within our organization. I wholeheartedly endorse Absolute Health Services (PTY) Ltd to any employer seeking a reliable partner in fostering a culture of health and safety across all levels of their workforce.
